Change of License for the Open-Source Project "Toolbox"

I, Jérémy T. (aka Koizeay), hereby declare the change of license for the open-source project Toolbox.

This project, a mobile app developed in Flutter for Android and iOS, was previously licensed under the GNU General Public License v3.0 (GNU GPL v3). As of today, the project's license is changed to Mozilla Public License 2.0 (MPL 2.0). This license change has been carried out with the written agreement of all contributors to the source code of Toolbox, ensuring that all contributors are informed and in agreement with this evolution.

The project repository remains publicly accessible at the following address: https://github.com/Koizeay/Toolbox. This continued accessibility allows users and developers to review, modify, and propose improvements to the code with full transparency.

It is important to note that all previous versions, including and up to version 1.18.0, will remain under the GNU GPL v3 license, in accordance with the original terms. Therefore, users and developers can still use these versions under the terms of the initial license without any additional restrictions.

This change primarily aims to better meet the project's needs, particularly by providing greater flexibility in its use and distribution. The MPL 2.0 license allows for better compatibility with other open-source projects.
